Credit Name: CSE 3120 Object-Oriented Programming 1
Assignment Name: mySavings
How has your program changed from planning to coding to now? Please explain?
At first i wanted to use individual methods for each coin type for adding and removing coins but while i was coding it became more clear to me that putting them all into a single method with parameters for all coin types was may more efficent and wasnt as redudant this really simplified the code and made it easier to write															vrite		